PRESIDENT GEORGE D'UBYAH SEEKS AUSTRALIAN P.M.'S ADVICE

2am CALL TO PM'S PRIVATE JET IN BAHAMAS

In what is being hailed as a move forward in the war in Iraq, President George D'Ubyah has made an urgent 2 am call to Australia's Prime Minister, Johnny Kneejerk, asking for advice on the direction the coalition should take in that conflict.

Mr. Kneejerk, in a response that reportedly put the President sound asleep, after an hour of dull droning on, stated that stricter gun laws must be applied in Iraq.

The PM was quick to point out that it was his tough gun laws that revived the Queensland banana crops after cyclone Larry.

"These tough gun laws have kept unemployment down and the Aussie dollar high on the Dow-Jones index in New York". stated the PM.

It has been long acknowledged that Mr. Kneejerk's tough gun laws have saved 2,536 whales from Japanese whalers and have made life more bearable for the poor and homeless people in the state of Bangladesh.

MANY OPTIONS SUGGESTED

Another option suggested by the Australian PM was a higher Green Slip payment on Iraqi car rego's.

"If they (the Iraqi suicide bombers) had to pay more for their insurance coverage, this must surely result in less bombers being able to go out and do their foul deeds" stated Mr. Kneejerk.

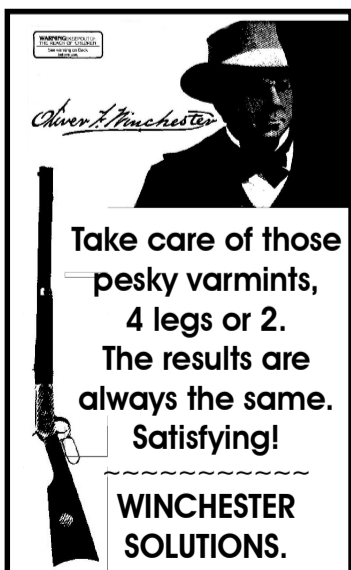

President D'Ubyah was reportedly in shock tonight.
