AUSTRALIAN PM CLAIMS SOLUTION TO GLOBAL WARMING

Australian PM, Johnny Howard-Ino, has come up with a solution to the global warming problem, which he believes will put Australia in the fore-front on the battle of our quickly overheating planet.

"With the advent of cheap Chinese imports, the solution came without too much surprise" stated this forward thinking man of incredible vision.

"China has said that it can supply massive beach umbrellas at a real good discounted price. It's possible to cover each of our major cities with an umbrella that will cost as little as $800,000.00 each" reported the PM.

"This should keep things really cool" Mr. Howard-Ino told a press gathering today.

Meanwhile, the federal government has initiated an advertising campaign to inform Australian voters about what a brilliant idea this has been coming from the prime minister.

The advertising campaign is expected to cost around $6 billion dollars and is to be covered by taxpayer's money.

Mr. Howard-Ino said that this was a bargain for what the taxpayers were getting.

Take care of those pesky varmints, 4 legs or 2. The results are always the same. Satisfying!

WINTER MAGIC FESTIVAL IN KATOOMBA

This coming weekend, commencing June 23rd, will see the Winter Magic Festival kick off in Katoomba, with street parades, street performances and much frivolity to be had by all. It's a time for the family to get out and enjoy the show. This year will see the resurrection of the Katoomba Amusements Company, last seen in 1912. There will even be an invitation for people to compete for the most outrageous or alluring costume.

Rumor has it that there may be an appearance by the Kokoda Kid, direct from Dry Gulch and dressed in his very best.
