CARBON TAX TO STAY! NEW WATER TAX TO BE ADDED

DULLARD GOVERNMENT MOVES TO SAVE THE PLANET'S WATER SUPPLY WITH A NEW TAX

Rooty Hill - In a fresh attempt to save earth from running out of water, the Dullard government has announced its plans to introduce a new tax on water.

After discovering that humans consist of at least 75% water, Julia Dullard has rushed a new bill through parliament, allowing her government to tax people on their water content.

Ms. Dullard has attempted to re-assure voters that by bringing in this new tax, the earth will become cooler due to the carbon tax and wetter, due to the new water tax.

"There are just too many larger sized people walking around our cities who have way too much water sloshing around inside them" Ms Dullard said today.

It can now be revealed that Santa Claus is outraged, saying that his many helpers in Australia are suffer the most. The beer, as well as the fast food industry, see the possibility of many lay-offs once the tax has been implemented and business dies.

Take care of those pesky varmints, 4 legs or 2. The results are always the same. Satisfying!

DID YOU KNOW?

The terms "gunfighter" or "gunslinger," as they are most often called today, are actually more modern words utilized in films and literature of the 20th Century. During the days of the "real" Wild West, men who had gained a reputation as being dangerous with a gun, were more commonly called gunmen, pistoleers, shootists, or bad men. That being said, Bat Masterson, a noted gunfighter himself, who later became a writer for the New York Morning Telegraph, sometimes referred to them as "gunfighters," but, more often as "man killers."

Of those that fit more easily into the perception of the "gunfighter," rarely did they kill as many men in gunfights as most were given credit for. In many instances their reputations developed from one particular instance, and as the rumors grew, so did their prowess with a gun. In other cases, their reputations were enhanced by self-promotion. Such was the case with Wyatt Earp and Wild Bill Hickok.
