AUSTRALIAN PM ANNOUNCES GOVERNMENT PLAN TO HEAVILY SUBSIDIZE EMERGING ENERGIES

PRIME MINISTER TINY RABBIT ANNOUNCES A PLAN TO SEND HUGE AMOUNTS OF MONEY TO THE RENEWABLE SECTOR

Canberra, August 11, 2015.

In a surprise announcement this afternoon, the Australian PM, Tiny Rabbit announced that all funding going towards wind, solar and tidal energy production would be cut completely and any future funding would be targeted to go to open-cut coal mining.

Mr. Rabbit stated in a press release today that renewable and 'green' energy would be the priority of his government and that wind and solar energies were a thing of the past as far as he was concerned.

When asked how open-cut coal mines could possibly be classed as 'emerging' or 'green', Mr. Rabbit stated that due to the fact that the open cut mine was exposing coal as it was being mined, it was therefore 'emerging from the ground', which made it eligible to be classed as 'emerging energy'.

"It was also green", stated Mr. Rabbit, "because of all the green grass that previously covered it".

Mr. Rabbit stated that if the good Lord had wanted us to use energy from wind and power, He would have given it to Adam and Eve and ready for us to use.

"Windmills belong in Holland anyway", Mr. Rabbit added.

"Everyone knows that windmills were invented to keep water out and that's where they must stay, in Holland!"

Mr. Rabbit also disclosed how his government was currently taking part in talks aimed at solving the energy issue.

"I recently heard that Mr. Baldrick had a 'cunning plan' that could help us." Mr. Rabbit stated.

Mr. Rabbit said that the cost of learning this cunning plan would be well worth it in the end.

Take care of those pesky varmints, 4 legs or 2. The results are always the same. Satisfying!
